The Prince's mother was a daughter of Oubic, the Chief of a district in Abyssinia celled Somion. Her name was "Tirroworkis," or Pure Gold. Theodore was married to her by the sacramental rite of the Coptic Church, which is a union beyond the power of divorce. The lady was reputed to have been very beautiful, and although young she was brave, and was said to have been the only person in Abyssinia that did not fear the anger of Theodore. Shortly after their marriage is so chanced that one day, as asking why she did so, the reply was, "I am communing with a greater person than you." The book was the Pealms of David David being a character to whom Theodere likened himself on account of some similitudes between their early lives. She could not have touched a more tender point. The King ordered her off to Magdala, where her son was born, and where she remained a prisoner for about seven years, only goining liberty with the other prisoners when the mountain stronghold was taken by Lord Napier. Her doath did not take place in Enypt, but at Eiguliet, one march on this side of Antalo, when she was being brought down with her son along with our troops on their return to Annealey Bay. This took place on the 15th May, 1868, and she was buried next morning in the church of Chelicut, a place of some note for its sanctity, about three miles from Eikulist. At Zoula the boy was banded over to General Merewother. On leaving Zoula he was placed under the charge of Captain Speedy, who brought him to England. At Scen Captain Speady took the boy to a sliop in order to get some clothes of a European make. Speedy also was in need of miment, and the difficulty was to get garments small anough for Alamayon, standing six feet six in his stockings. From this shop the Prince made his first appearance in knickerbookers, a pork-pie hat, and leather son of "Theodorus," and a vast crowd was in waiting to see them appear. The Prince was in Captain Speedy's charge, and lived in the Isla of Wight. After a year or two the latter got an son, whose private life was irreproschable, had services in connection with his charge. A SUCCESSOR TO CETYWAYO. The Cape Argus has the following:- "A report is current beyond the Tugela to the effect that Umbulazi is still alive, and about to return and othim his own. Umbulazi was the son of the late. King Pauda, and contested with Cetywayo the right of succession to the Zulu throne. In a ON LONI torrible battle between the rival factions which was fought within sight of the Natal border, Umbulani's army, one wing of which was led by John Dann, was completely routed and pursued to the Tugels by the victorious foc. That river was then in flood, and it is estimated that the number clain in battle, added to thuse who were ON BOMB frowned in the vain, endeavour to escape into Natal, was not less than 3,000 men. It has always been supposed that Umbalani-fell in the fight, but his body was not discovered, and a large section of his a thoronts, has persistently clung to the bolief that, sooner or later, he would re-appear. That belief appears to have gathered strength since the capture of Cotywayo left the nation without a recognised head, and the reporwhich is now current may be based as much upon a genuine conviction that the favourite son of Panda is still alive. as upon grounds which are perhaps more immediately obvious. Having proved hipself unable to maintain his own, and having been carried away over seas, Cotywayo is in a sense dead to his people, and his cattle, said to amount to a third of the number in possession of the entire tribe, belong of right, according to Hongkons Zalu law and oustom—and in the absence of a successor to the conquering power, The borri- China Fir torial chiefs agreed with Sir Garnet Wolseley, whom he was at Ulundi, to fulfil the conditions. imposed upon them in this respect; but it cannot be supposed that they could look upon the magnificent herds of cattle which comprised liongkons side of the Tugela without regret. Hence it may be that the wish that Umbulasi might roturn has been father to the thought, for the China Co cattle would be looked upon as his lawful birthright if he should re-appear."

THE AGRICULTURAL SKILLETON IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The publication of the results of the most disastrous harvest known in England for more than two generations, has sent a thrill of alarm Chinese throughout the country. Even to those not given to be alarmists, the fact that the homeproduction of wheat has been only some six million quarters this year, whereas four times as much may be required for the consumption of our population, must supply grounds of apprehension. Agriculture, it is true, is no longer the staple industry of England, as it was in 1816 the year lo which we are told we must go bank in order to find a parallel for the harvest of 1879. What was then about a third of our total industry is now nearer a tenth. Disaster and suffering. among the classes interested in agriculture are no longer, therefore, what they used to be when a scant harvest was a national calamity. 'Still, the necessity of spending many extra millions, as will have to be expended in buying food for our population, must, in any case, be a serious strain upon our resources. If we must purchase eighteen million-quarters from the foreigner, it is cortain that much capital must be diverted from remunerative employment, and that it will be necessary to make allowance for this in estimating the probable courses of trade. We are this year in a more uninvourable position as purchasors than usual, from the fact that we have to face formidable competition from France. where also the harvest has been deficient, and which will require to supplement its homesupplies by large importations of foreign wheat. If the total surplus of wheat in all countries that have excesses beyond their own requirements is only standarder. thirty million quarters, and the amount needed [thermounter by countries which have insufficient supplies is forty million quarters, it is obvious that the competition must be severe, and that a further lorge advance in price is certain. But is it certain that England will really require such a large, quantity from abroad as has been assumed? We Wet Thomas are inclined to think there is a good deal of involuntary exaggeration to the figures of those who have taken the pessimint view of the sub- Rour's But lect, and that they have not allowed for some modifying factors in the case. It has not been sufficiently taken into account that, in all probability, provision will have to be made for a shorter time then usual this year. Our harvest this season has been exceptionally late; and there is reasonable ground for indulging the hope that this will not be so again. If we have un early harvest next year, or one at the ordinary season. he time during which our population must depend upon foreign supplies will be shorter than usual. In addition to this there is the fact that we imported during the past year [1878-9] a runch larger quantity than has been used. Counting together the home produce and the foreign imports of that year, we have had an available supply of over twenty-six million quarters, or two millions more, than, according to the computation, will be required this year. At least two million quarters of the old stock- | PHCEN probably more—will be available for this year's wants, thus reducing the amount we shall have HE to import to sixteen million quarters. Even that figure may be in excess of our needs; for | Port, as one of the effects of a short harvest is to Fire to ourtail consumption, so that fifteen million on Good quarters of imported foreign wheat may be enough, and that is only a trifly more than we imported last year. Yet last year who felt the strain on the national resources ? It was almost ignored amid the pressure of other interests. The TITHE fact that it will not be so this year, that already there have been anxious speculations on the of UNI power of the country to pass through the trial ithout severe in uty, tends to make people more . House sonsitive in regard to it, and, as is the case with predictions that help to bring their own fulfil. ment, we become more liable to estab clarm. But when the setual dimensions of the disaster are looked in the face, it must be seen that, however severely it may tell upon a class, there is absolutely no ground for looking upon it as a national calamity. That it may check the progress of the trade-revival, which is everywhere making itself manifest, is probable ; for it must divect capital that would otherwise be amployed | $50.00 in developing legitimate business enterprise to what, in one sense, is unproductive expenditure. But the strain will be on a class, not on the community; and though it is true that when one member suffers all the members there and should

However superior universal Free-trade may be to Free-trade confined to States or communities that have common interests and are united togother by common ties of kinship, it is certain there is absolutely no chance of the former making its way in the world. It has therefore some to be a question for the statesmen of the ninoteenth century, whether it would not be wiser to set about forming parrower areas of union for commercial and trading purposes, trade. Late Letters may be posted on board the Packet with Late Fee of 18 cents until time of departure. To provide means of remitting small sums of money to or from this Colony and botween the Ports of China and Japan, the Postmasters and Agents of this Office will in future be allowed (but not required) to purolfase Hongkong Postage Stamps from foreign residents. Between Hongkong and Shanghai, or Hong. kong and Yokohama, however in either direction, Money-Orders must be used.

The Stamps tendered for sale must not exseed $50 in value, must be perfectly clean, in good condition, and in strips of at least two, as no separate. Stamps will be purchased. They must be presented personally or accompanied Letters containing Stamps should be registered, and the Stamps should be seenred from The attention of owners, agents, and charterers of steamers is drawn to the provisions of The Post Office Ordinance, 1876. Under the old Ordinance no notice was required of the departure of a vessel if not adverised, nor of departures for Canton or Macao. Notice is now required of any departure, though with regard to sailing ships, the old rule will practically remain in force, that notice need not e sent unless asked for-Section XXV. requires that the first notice be sent to the Post Office. In the case of steamers plying regularly or on fixed days, notice of any change in the day or hour will be sufficient."

Stamped correspondence may still be sent on board any vessel after the Mail is closed at the The Postmaster General takes this opportunity of calling the attention of firms to the fact that any such words as Despatches-will close at 11 A.M. added to the advertisement of a vessel are illegal. Consigness' letters are exempted by law from passing through the Post Office, but no person is allowed to make collection of such letters for transmission, under a penalty of £100 per week during which the practice is continued. TEA MUSTERS. Persons who send Musters of Tea through the Post in Tins are requested to have them made fint or square instead of round, as it is impossible to pack round tine securely in the mail bags. It is believed that the tea will travel more safely in flat time, which are not so liable as round ones to be bulged in. 4 by 3 by 12 inches is suggested as a good size. The time should not have sharp corners.

Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal. The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with some recognisable soal, and of sending a chit-book or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office: the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postago Stamps. MONEY ORDERS.

1.-Money Orders on the United Kingdom and the Straits Settlements are issued at Hong. Yokohama also issue on Hongkong and vice other Ports by means of Postage Stamps. 9.-Many Money Orders are supplied to residents at the smaller Ports in this way. An application for an order is filled up, and is enclosed with a stamped, directed, and unscaled envelope to the Postmastar at the nearest issuing Office. The application must be accompanied with the full amount (including commission) in Cheque, Postage Stamps, or other equivalent of cash, and a little margin should be left for varia tions of exchange. The Postmaster issues the order, sends it on in the envelope, and returns. the change, if any, by first opportunity, with a receipt for the letter, if it were to be registered, as it always should be. Care should be taken to send these applications in time, as the Money Order Offices close some hours before the departures of the Mails. 4.—No Order must exceed 210, or enclude any fraction of a penny. Orders will be drawn at the current rate of the day't and paid at the rate of the day when the advice arrived. The Commission is as follows :---ORDERS ON THE UNITED KINGDOM. Up to £2 18 Cents.

Up to £5 86 Cents. Up to £7 54 Cents. Up to £10 72 Cents. LOCAL MONEY ORDERS (including Straits Settlemental: Up to $50 80 Cents.

5. Lists of Money Order Offices in the United Kingdom may be consulted at Hongkong, Bhanghai, and Yokohama: 6.—Names must be given in full (except whenthere is more than one Christian name but the name of the Payee need not be given if the order be crossed. It can then be paid only through a Bank, and may afterwards be specially crossed to any Bank. 7-No Order can be paid till the Payee have signed it in the proper place. An Order can be transferred to another Office on payment of an additional commission. In case of loss of an order, necessity for stopping payment, or the like, application should be made to the nearest Money Order Office for instructions

8.—If the Order be not presented within six months, an additional commission will be charged; if not within twelve months, the money will be forfeited. When the order is once paid no further claim can be entertained. 9.-No Order can be paid until the advice relative to it has been received. Made out on a printed form which is supplied
